Have you ever wondered why people live in poverty? Or how small actions by many people can result in a Big Change?

Join Susan Cooper from Community Action Partnership, Sonoma County's designated anti-poverty agency, as she talks about her work to repair the world one day at a time. Susan will discuss the agency's programs that work to change the cycles of poverty in this community, how the fires effected their programs and clients and how her Jewish values play a part in her work.
